GeoNova serves innovative social studies publishers with advanced digital media production. We create focused learning content grounded in contemporary National Geography Standards.

As your development partner, we deploy the latest digital technology in sophisticated rich media applications. Our digitally distributed webapps combine maps, audio, still images, animation, and video in enhanced levels of interactivity.

GeoNova is also the leading provider of cartographic services for traditional printed textbooks. We offer consistent design, meticulous content research, and thorough source documentation.

No one has more experience in creating education mapping and developing map-based products and applications. As a primary map supplier for many K-12 social studies curriculum programs, we have developed map programs for the largest textbook publishers in North America.
